BOOMING GUNS GREET TAFT IN MINNEAPOLIS

By WILLIAM HOSER.
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Sept. 18.
When President Taft arrived here today he was greeted by booming guns. The program of entertainment was in full swing when word was received that Governor Johnson was dying at Rochester. The President expressed his regret at the news and suggested that the program for his entertainment here be abandoned. It was decided, however, that for the time being the program would be carried out as planned unless news of the Governor's death should be received.
President Taft was met by a joint con-

St. Paul, who escorted him to breakfast.

The program for the President here today included a motor ride to Fort Snelling luncheon at the Town and Country Club, then a motor ride around St. Paul, returning to Minneapolis at 5 p. m. for a reception until 8 p. m.

RICH DANKER ROCKS LIFE'S DURGEE SUIT

PAID, Sept. 18.—Arthur W. Mellon, Pittsburgh's greatest banker, an intimate friend and business associate of Henry C. Dinker, and who, with his brother, contributed more money than any other contribution to the Smoky City, has separated from his wife.

But this acute business sense availed him nothing in his matrimonial venture, and he has been treated more as an English woman's slave and a domesticated husband than as a man.

It was in England six years ago, that he met the future Mrs. Mellon. Charmed by her grace and manner and standing, he was won over to a life of domesticity, and he was married. He took her to Pittsburgh, where his wife made a fortune in the city.

There was a sudden change, however, for the wife, who had been a domesticated woman, began to show signs of a more active life. She began to show signs of a more active life.

FIREBUG SETS HOUSE; WOMAN SAVES SEVEN

The heads of seven people lying in the three-story French boarding house at 302 Willow Street, Lynn, were impaled by the force of an incendiary early today, but the bodies were not. The explosion, which for a short time threatened to engulf all wood here, resulted in the flames. As it was several years nearly overcome, it made no one sleep.

At 10:30, Eugene Thompson, the housekeeper, was awakened by the ringing of an alarm, which she said of a few minutes later. She looked out and the house filled with smoke. She called out to the neighbors and made her way downstairs. In a few minutes she found a brick hit together. She retraced her steps and found the rest of the people in the house. Marion Carter, Harry Piper and Albert Munroe were not

The alarm clock rang. They were struck at the first of Mrs. Sorenson and group. Their way down through the door chain was blocked. They were falling in the way to the street. They were followed by a minister Christian, Harry Harding and a young woman, who was seen asleep on the table and who were also awakened by Mrs. Sorenson. All were affected by the smoke and had difficulty in getting out of the building.

In the meantime an alarm had been sounded, and when the apparatus arrived, the fire was raging in the cellar and was rapidly eating its way up to the floor above. The fire department arrived and the fire was extinguished. The Sorenson family, Hamilton and Freeman Frank Rood, risked their lives to save a Boston territory and her new pups.

The fire had started in a pile of wood in the front of the cellar and love ever since.

TATF LEADS TARIEF REBELS FROM PARTY IN WINONA SPEECH

By ALFRED HENRY LEWIS.

WINONA, Minn., Sept. 18.—Already the presidential swing around the popular vote is giving birth to new situations. Mr. Tatf's original line of march leads to the White House. But Madison, the old-time leader of the tariff rebels, has been rebuffed by the tariff rebels. Against Senator Lafayette, who will not be up for reelection, General MacArthur, former of the army, now of Milwaukee, is in the field. The ex-soldier is the candidate of the conservatives, or in other words the safe and sane element, as against the Lafayette, who are of the people and stand close to the popular ground.

Now when the presidential route is ranged so as to take in Milwaukee and leave Madison out in the cold, it is thought by wise men to show a Tariff preference for General MacArthur over Senator Lafayette. For myself, I do not think there is anything in it. Wisconsin welcomes the President. As the same time, when it comes to Senator picking, Wisconsin, that every self-respecting commonwealth, would see little or less than White House desires, assuming that the White House has the last word to determine any.

Senator Lafayette met William Tatf at the Fair grounds in the midst of political, bickering and shenanigans. They greeted each other with polite warmth. The President even seemed inclined to shake a little, and if there was stiffness or frost it was on the side of the Senator.

Senator More Dangerous

Tarf made a remarkable side show, the better still magistrate standing head and shoulders over the little man of the toga. Led the little man, head down a truck and bristled wire hair, would appear the more portly. The crowd snail the danger in him as one would enter a house. He will lead General MacArthur and be his new Senate successor. Also, with his intelligence and fighting instinct, his magnet will prove a stumbling block to even a President's ambition.

Aside from the group, which tells how the President snatched from Madison, Milwaukee, with the thought of a Lafayette attack and a MacArthur boost—two birds, one stone, the life of reason is much concerned over Mr. Tatf's visit to Winona. Winona is the home of the popular and political, of Representative Tawney. Mr. Tawney has been sixteen years in the house and is the chief of the appropriations committee.

As such he can start or stop the flow of money. In view of the place on the House map, plus his own natural force, Tawney is among the most powerful men in the House.

With speaker Joe Cannon, committee chairman House. What he is, is a shrewd, realistic, a war eagle of legislation. For all of which he is bound to be of White House importance, and his cultivation would be worthy the White House.

Tawney in Dutch.

It behoves as a result of his tariff action in connection with the Tariff rebellion and a willingness, if not an anxiety to promote revenue in the upward way it should.

IN THE LAND OF THE INSURGENTS

Tarf's Defence of Payne Tariff Bill

Best tariff bill the country ever had.

"Insurgents" who voted against it abandoned the Republican party. Woolen schedule far too high, but this is the one important defect in the bill.

Proportion of decreases under Payne law three times those of increases.

Increases have been on luxuries; decreases on necessities. High rate on woollens will not increase cost of clothes.

Bill shows decreases in 654 items.

It is $5,000,000, representing the consumption of cotton in the United States, and the amount to which the Tariff Bill will be added.
